MUSIC.

BROOKLYN PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY. The fourth concert of the Brooklyn Philharmonic Society, which took place last night in the Academy of Music, introduced Herr Henry Schradieck, violin-18t, t - a numerous and appreciative audience. The list of compositions which made up the programme was a familiar one, but the performance was remarkable in several respects, and the concert can be set down as the most brilliant of the season. The programme was as follows:

Symphony, No. 8 (unfinished) Schube Concerto for violin, No. 7 E minor Spohr. Herr Henry Schradieck. Overiure, "King Lear," op. 4 Berliez Symphony, No. 5, C minor Beetho

Beethoven. In the two symphonies the band was strengthened by the doubling of all the wood wind. After the results attained at the first concert (at which the experiment was made with the "Eroica" symphony) and again last night, there ought never to such a procedure. The want of balance in a large band, as ordinarily composed, has been commented on for a long time, and at the Schumann Fest in Bonn about ten years ago the orchestra was given double wood with a great gain of mellowness and richness in the body of tone. That orchestra numbered one hundred and players—not many more than employed in the concert last twenty night. It would seem as if the thinness in the word choir has grown up during the last sixty or seventy years, for it is on record that in per-formances of "The Messiah," with Mozart's added acompanuments, early in the century, the proportion maintained in the orchestra was 4 oboes, 4 clarinets and 4 bassoons to 28 violins, divided evenly into firsts and seconds; and this was the instrumental complement to a chorus of less than a bundred voices. In the time of Bach and Handel the propertion of wood wind was much larger, the oboes then being used as ripieno instruments, in the proportion of one oboe to three violins. True the manner of writing for the wood wind has undergone a great change since then, but it is a fact which will scarcely be successfully contestep after the demoustration Mr. Thomas has given us that with the strings numbering eighty men usual wood wind instruments must be doubled if they are not to be swallowed up in the tuttis by the combined strings and brass. The gain in senerity and homogeneity of tone in the concert last night was most marked; and this fact, combined with the fire and precision with which the reading was imbued, made the performance of the C minor symphony one of thrilling interest. It ought to be stated, however, that neither in this symphony nor in Schubert's lovely torse, was the added wood wind used all the time; they lent their voices chiefly to the tuttis.

Herr Schradieck, who was a stranger to all but a very few of his listeners, submitted his powers a severe test and won a tribute of enthusiastic applause. He is at present a resident of tic applause. He is at present a resident of Cincinnati, and the head of the violin department of the College of Music of which Mr. Thomas was once musical director. For about eight years before he came to this country he was a teacher at the Lerpsic Conservatory, and the principal of the violins of the. Gewandhaus orchestra, having been called to both places on the death of Ferdinand David. This master had been his teacher for a time after he had carried away the first prize at Brussels in 1858. In the Belgian school he enjoyed the instruction of Leonard. He was a prodigy as a child, beginning study on the violin with his father, as a boy of four years, and playing the violin part of a Beethoven somata before he was six. He ranks high among the violin players of to-day, but higher as a teacher.

Herr Schradieck's playing was that of a splendidly schooled violin virtuoso. His left hand is pice-nomenal, and if his bow-arm falls short in anything it is not in power. With it he controls a noble tone, even and rich in quality, and very powerfu. His style is marked by ease and repostfulness, and a simple directness that is admirable in one with such extraordinary equipment. His chief and almost only want seems to be warmth and sympathy. He was enthusiastically applicated after the Spohr Concerto, and responded to the recall with a "perpetual motion" study (evidently an original composition) requiring a strength of wrist that it was wearying even to think of, and a lightness in bowing that few violinists possess. It is to be hoped that he will be heard in New-York before the season ends. ore the season ends.

Mme. Pappenheim will sing at a concert in the Thalis Theatre to-aight. "Die Afrikarelse" will be giver every other night of the week, except Thursday, when "loceaceto" will be performed with Miss Second. Mr. Abbey's opera company will appear in

The solo singers will be Mine. Furscii-Mail, ac. Trebelli, Mile. Labinche, M. Capoul, Sig. Del ente, eig. Mirabella and Sig. Stagt. Prophete.

The law of compensation shows itself operative even in the case of Mr. Gran's French opera at Haverly's Comedy Theatre. The room is a small one for operatic entertainments, but as with these comedians the musical element is at a minimum and the histrionic at a maximum, the smallness of the room has actually en hanced the pleasurable character of the performances. Their comedy is inimitable. This week "Madame Fayart" on Saturday afternoon. On Thursday evening Sardon's comedy, " Divorçons," will be played.

WHAT IT COST NOT TO FIND A MURDERER. STRATFORD, Conn., Jan. 12,-The investigations of the death of Rose Clark, or Rose Ambier, as she was more familiarly called, have cost the State a much larger sam that the public is aware of. The account of the Coroner for $523 29 is only a small item in the aggregate. Upon the criminal costs book of the Superior Court appear the following items nuder the heading " In regard to the death of Rose Ambier," which were taxed at the October term of the Court: Dr. George L. MR. DELMONICO STILL MISSING. THE SEARCH IN AND AROUND NEWARK.

NO CLEW THAT LEADS TO A SATISFACTORY RESULT

-A SENSATIONAL STORY DENIED. Detective Julian and his assistants dragged the canal sewer on the Newark meadows all day yesterday in the hope of finding the body of Charles Delmonico. The force consisted of six dredgers and four detectives. The dredgers dragged their hooks along the bottom of the canal, followed by men in boats. When they reached a point about a mile from the bay, the surface of the canal was found to be frozen and the men broke the ice for about half a mile and dragged the bottom for that distance. Going down to the bay, one of the men observed a dark object on the ice about a mile distant from the shore. Several of the men volunteered to walk out be a que tion as to the propriety and excellence of to it, and found the ice streng enough to bear their weight. Upon nearing the object they found it was only a lump of black colored ice. Before nightfall the party returned to the Boulevard Hotel, where the dredgers and boatmen were paid for their services. To-day ten men under Detective Julian will make a close examination of every part of the Newark meadows, and will be piloted by "Pete" Langstaff and "Major" Miller, the two meadow

Judson that he saw a man who answered to the description given of Mr. Delmonico walking through the town on Monday morning. The officer was afterward informed by a citizen that Judson was a "half-wit" and his statements could not be relied upon. The officers also made an investigation of the truth of the statement of a Mrs. Charles Coarad, of No. 455 Third-ave., Elizabeth, that she saw and talked with Mr. Delmonico on Thursday morning and gave him two cents, and that he went down the Long Branch railroad toward the Elizabeth River bridge. The detectives satisfied themselves that there was no truth in the story and that the man seen by M s. Conrad was a tramp.

Mr. Delmonico's friends were much annoyed by a sensational story stating that Mr. Delmonico had been accustomed to send costly flowers to a female friend and was on terms of intimacy with her, and that as she was known to have sailed for Europe recently, the probabilities were that he had accompanied her. This was denied emphatically by all the relatives of Mr. Delmonico. One of them said: "Some four or five years ago Charlie did make a fool of himself about a woman. She has been dead, however, some years." Inquiry was made at the offices of all the lines owning steamers which sailed on Saturday a week ago. In every case it was stated to be impossible that any one could have sailed on such short notice as would have been the case with Mr. Delmonico. All the passages had been taken long before the day of sailing, and no one could engage a passage without its being known at the general offices. All he steamers sailing south to Havana and Florida, which started on January 5, have already arrived, and in no case was Mr. Delmonico found to be on board, though search was made under telegraphic notification.

Mr. Baleock, of Adams Express Company, said that it was quite possible hat the missing man had a large sam of money in his possession, though all that it is known he possessed is about $10. Mr. Baleock, of Adams Express Company, said that it was quite possi

PLACED IN THE HANDS OF A RECEIVER.

PATE OF THE NORTH BIVER CONSTRUCTION COM-

PANY-DECLINE IN WEST SHORE BONDS. The North River Construction Company went into the hands of a receiver on Saturday evening. This result has been for some days anticipated. The large business and the heavy decline in the price of its first mortgage bonds, recently, have at-tracted attention to the naffirs of the New-York, West Shore and Buffalo Railway Company, which was opened through to Buffalo at the beginning of the year. The reported transactions in these bonds exceeded $50,00,000 yesterday; they were only little smaller on Friday and, since the admission of the remainder of the issue by the Stock Exchange on Wednesday, they have nearly reached the $14,500,000 then listed. The bonds ell to 57% yesterday from 60%, and, after a smart rally of money from the Pennsylvania Railroad on the security of second mortgage bonds. All these rumors have been denied by the officers of the company.

Since the annual meeting, carly in the week, of the company and of the North River Construction Company, which engaged to build the line, it has been known that the two companies have been trying to settle their accounts. It is understood that the construction company has spent a large amount of money in excess of its contract price, but that it claims that the railroad company is responsible for the whole sum. The amount of this difference is variously stated at from $5,000,000 to $8,000,000. Officers of both companies say that the exact sum cannot be named because the accounts have not been adjusted.

not be named because the accounts have not see an applicated.

The construction company is known to have sought for a sum variously stated at from five to eight ndillions of dellars to pay liabilities already incurred in the competion of its work. Various efforts have been made to secure this sum from different parties and on different plans. All having proved unsuccessful the construction company was compelled to go into a receiver's hands. The result is probably advantageous to the West Shore Railway, and if it has any effect at all upon the bonds of that corporation, it is likely to be beneficial.

THE POOL TOURNAMENT.

At the pool tournament at the Madison Square Billiard Hall yesterday the first game was between Manning and Dankelman, which was won by Manning by a score of 11 to 8. Long Branch, N. J., Jan. 12.-Vice-Chancellor Bird, of New Jersey, has rendered his opinion in the suit instituted by Solomou Maps against the mem bers of the Board of Trustees of the Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church of Long Branch. In 1870 Mr. Maps became the owner of a mortgage of $5,700 against the church property. when the society reorganized as St. Luke's Church, Mr. Maps sold the property back to it at a loss of about $3.000. He such the members of the old Board of Trustees to recover the amount which he lost, hasisting that they were individually hable to him for the amount still due on their bond. THE WEEK IN SOCIETY.

A REVIEW OF THE SOURCES OF PLEASURE.

THE ERA OF AMATEUR THEATRICALS, PRIVATE AND PUBLIC BALLS-THE SOCIAL PROSPECT.

There has been great variety in the week's social features. It is the season of large public balls, and the two military receptions at the new Opera House drew a number of people in society who had friends in the ranks of the soldiery and wished to see how they would appear in paulettes and gold lace. The most practicable feature of the week, however, was the production of the "Romance of a Poor Young Man," at the Madison. Club Theatre. For three evenings the courageous little ompany of amateurs pleased brilliant audiences whose terest was kept up until the curtain fell for the last time. The rather long entractes gave opportunity for a among them Mrs. Lorillard, Mrs. William Astor and Mrs George Rives-saw the best performance of all, The acting of Mrs. Potter, who took the heroine's part, showed the results of careful study for art's sake. Mr. Bird, Mr. Hill, Mr. Coward and Mrs. Teall did themselves credit. The sum cleared for the charity was about $2,500. The play will be repeated at Orange on the 16th, when Mrs. Kirkland and Mrs. Teall will enertain parties who will go out from this city to see it. The play lasted until 11:30 on the first night, and there vas tedious waiting for carriages afterward in the cold lobbles. The consequence was that many of the guests at Mrs. Gibert's ball came late. But once arrived the company, in the ample second-floor parlors, with their specimens of the old masters, statuary, etc., made a stately scene. The Giberts are an old French family, whose particular misfortune is to have their name spelled Gilbert" by the printers.

McCoskry Butt gave a small bachelor dinner the same vening at Delmorico's, and Mrs. G. W. Merritt also gave a dinner. Tuesday was a day replete with home parties of unusual share. Ex-Judge Dilion's reception nominally to Madame Sembrich was well attended, while Miss Davis, daughter of Judge Noah Davis, held court at her father's house on the occasion of her debut. The Davis children have in. tellect as well as charming manners. Mrs. F. R. Coudert's german for her daughters in the evening was the most interesting incident of the day for young people. Mrs. Alexander Van Bensselaer gave a very pretty dancing-party for her daughter at their home in Thirty-seventh-st., some of her guests being the same who sat down earlier at Mrs. William Astor's dinnerparty. Another large dinner-party the same evening took place at Josiah M. Fiske's. Miss Sophia Kellogg, daughter of Gardner J. Kellogg, was married to Silas Deane Gregory at Katonah, N. Y. Wednesday brought a wedding-almost a novelty late weeks. Miss Minnle Havemeyer Elder was married to McCoskry Butt in the Church of the Holy Spirit at 4:30 p. m. It was one of the prettlest wedding scenes of this season. The six bridesmaids in pink, yellow and blue would alone have made it so; but to these were added the charm of roses, bowers and festoous of holly, music and a brilliant company of guests. Mrs. Robert McKim gave a handsome german in the evening for her daughter, at which were resent the most attractive of this season's debutantes. The favors were especially tasteful. Mrs. Norrie's reception drew a crowd in the afternoon, as did also the dancing party at Mrs. D. J. Steward's, the latter being a slightly older party than Mrs. McKim's. In Brooklyn a dinner-party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Kissam. James H. Lancaster, of London, gave a dinner-party at No. 121 Fifth-ave., at which were present Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, General Wolseley, Commodore Dicker son, General di Cesnola, ex-Mayor Ely, Baron Falkenberg and others. Miss Leavitt appeared in a white reception dress. The presences of several foreigners of note added interest to the bal Mr. Moore and Miss Leavitt led the german. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Knickerbacker received at No. 881 Fifth-ave, in the afternoon, and Mrs. W. D. Sloan gave a dinner in the evening. John Nichols entertained Mr. Depew before delivering his lecture at the Adelphi Academy, Brooklyn. Mrs. McCready, of No. 10 West Twenty-second st., received a large company on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Peleg Hall gave a children's party in the evening at No. 16 West Thirty-fourth at., and Mrs. C. H. Welling gave a reception at No. 60 East Thirty-fourth-st., where Mr. Lincoln entertained the company. A dinner at Kebert Lenox Belknap's, No. 5 Gramercy Park, was one of the incidents of the day. Friday evening, however, was given mainly to the opera. Yes terday Mrs. J. D. Ogden gave a dinner at No. 31 West-Twentieth-st., and Mrs. J. W. Mintarn entertained her dancing class at No. 22 Washington Square.

This week will be another busy one for fashionable peple. The Family Circle Dancing Class meets to-morrow fell to 577s yeaterday from 60%, and, after a smart raily to 58%, closed active at 57%.

It has been admitted lately that the company was in need of money to complete its road and buy additional entipment. Daily meetings of its directors have been need to devise some plan by which these purposes might be accomplished. Nothing was done yesterday, although it has been reported for several days that a new mortgage had been deenled on and that the whole issue had been taken. Officers of the company denied that any plan had been agreed on. It is understood that ilberal offers of money have been made recently, but that none of them has been accepted, of the company said, "is that we did not knew from whom the offers came. I would prefer to see the road in the hands of a receiver rather than it should fail into Mr. Vanderbil's control at the moment."
